

LEARNING THE LESSONS

Bulletin 31 (General)

December 2017

Call handling

A man was found unresponsive, and later died, after there was a delay in police officers being deployed to assist the ambulance service in forcing entry to a property, after a dispatcher misinterpreted a note about a call from the ambulance service.

Neighbourhood policing

A 13-year-old girl who was under the influence of alcohol was sexually assaulted after police officers left her in a park, thinking that her friends who could be heard nearby would come back for her.

Professional standards

A woman who had been assaulted by her ex-partner and two other people made a complaint about the officer in charge of the investigation after she claimed he had abused his position as a police officer to groom her for his sexual gratification.

Public protection

A man about to be arrested for possession of indecent images of children committed suicide after becoming aware, while working away from home, that police officers wanted to speak to him.
